

GPB is my source for quality broadcasting for the blind and print-handicapped

April Olive, Atlanta, Georgia

Public broadcasting has something for everyone.

Georgia Facility Reading Service (GFARS) is an organization that serves more than 1,000 blind and print-handicapped Georgians, many of whom are seniors and have limited income. As Executive Director of GFARS, I work with GPB in making sure that our listeners are informed about the digital transition of television.

To learn more about GFARS go to www.gfars.org
Access GPB's Digital Guide at www.gpb.org/dv