“For president, I’ve got two choices.
 For coverage, there’s really only one—public broadcasting is always my source.”

*Brian K. Thomson,
 Denver, Colorado*

Public broadcasting combines the power of national programming from National Public Radio (NPR) and PBS, with insightful local shows such as Colorado State of Mind, Colorado Matters and Colorado Decides. You can count on this combination of coverage, especially now, to provide the information, analysis, and perspective you need to make decisions this election season. That’s the power of public broadcasting—owned by you, and connected to you, the American public.
